Sustainability Through Efficiency – Cutting Costs, Sparing Resources

Rising energy costs, finite resources and ever stricter legal regulations – the demands on companies to increase the energy efficiency of their business operations are increasing all the time. Efficient use of resources calls above all for pragmatic solutions that can be implemented at short notice. What are equally necessary, however, are overriding strategic concepts to ensure that companies remain competitive in the long term in times of constantly changing conditions and scenarios. And it really is possible to achieve economic and ecological goals at the same time – by using innovative technologies, optimised processes and intelligently organised networks; in short, through operational excellence. It is these interrelationships that are the focal point of the 10th Logistics Forum Duisburg. This anniversary event will profile hands-on strategies and the interplay of key factors but will also provide ample opportunity for an in-depth look at more detailed issues as well as for the intensive exchange of ideas and experiences.

Is it a good idea to offset uncertainties and unforeseen events in the international exchange of goods by building up bigger inventories or arranging for faster transport of these goods? How much air freight do supply chains really need? How can resources be spared and positive effects provably demonstrated? How can logistics service providers use efficient solutions to underpin their competitive status in the day-to-day marketplace?

Join with us in taking an in-depth look at current and future developments. Enjoy a warm welcome to Duisburg and play your part in the Forum!

Prof. Dr.-Ing. Raimund Klinkner
 President,
 German Logistics Association (BVL), Bremen
 CEO,
 Knorr-Bremse AG, Munich

Patron

In an increasingly globalised world, logistics will continue to gain in importance as one of the key sectors for the development of the German economy. Globalisation of markets and the intensification of trading relations will not only lead to further growth in the volume of goods being transported back and forth but are also primary drivers behind the dynamic expansion of the market for logistics services in recent years.

North Rhine-Westphalia is ideally equipped to meet the challenges arising from these developments. No other region in Europe can boast such a strong and close-knit road, rail and waterway network as this part of Germany between the Rhine and Weser rivers. In addition to three international and numerous regional airports, the state of North Rhine-Westphalia can also draw on a highly developed information and telecommunication infrastructure.

For ten years now, the Logistics Forum Duisburg has acted as an international forum for the sector and has served as an important platform for players from trade, industry and the services, a place where trends and solutions are presented and the ideal venue for the discussion of possible roadmaps for the logistics of the future.

May the Forum be just as successful in coming years as it has been during the last decade!

Dr. Jürgen Rüttgers
 Minister-President of North Rhine-Westphalia,
 Düsseldorf

Opening of the exhibition and Happy Hour

Happy Hour

Many companies will be using the exhibition to showcase their innovative products and services, providing you with an ideal opportunity to find out about developmental options for your logistics activities and to talk one-on-one with the exhibiting companies about tailored solutions that meet your specific needs.

During Happy Hour, you will have an opportunity to “warm up” for the Forum and make your first contacts while enjoying fingerfood and drinks.

Evening event of the 10th Logistics Forum Duisburg

Evening event

Following the official opening of the 10th Logistics Forum Duisburg, Corinna Lampadius will guide you through the evening programme; in the panel discussion, she will ask the participants how we can achieve sustainability through efficiency in such a way that we not only cut costs but also spare our resources.

Moderation

Corinna Lampadius
TV presenter,
Spiegel TV,
Hamburg

You can look forward to an extra-special evening to mark the 10th anniversary of the Logistics Forum Duisburg, an evening featuring first-rate speakers and a varied programme of entertainment. Logistics has continued to develop positively during the last decade, and this is reflected by the status of the Logistics Forum Duisburg as a leading international logistics event staged in North Rhine-Westphalia.

With providers increasingly concentrating on their core areas of expertise and in view of the international division of labour in value added networks, excellence in the logistics field is something that companies can no longer achieve on their own but only in cooperation with first-rate partners. The challenge faced by logistics service providers to develop complex, tailored solutions is growing all the time. This is why German Logistics Association presents the Logistics Service Award every year at the Logistics Forum Duisburg to an outstanding logistics solution that has provable and verifiable positive effects for the participating companies.

The “Ruhr Initiative Group”, which has 69 well-known member companies, has recognised the important role that value added through logistics plays in the success of modern business. The panel discussion chaired by Corinna Lampadius will focus on the key locational conditions for logistics activities and the future prospects for companies in the logistics sector.

VASCO DA GAMA DISCOVERED COMPLETELY NEW TRADE ROUTES. SO DO WE TODAY.

About 500 years ago Vasco da Gama was not only heading for India on an amazing new route, he was above all heading for the future, because shortening and improving existing trading channels opens up enormous potentials for economic success, then as now.

In this respect duisport is setting standards in the 21st century: as innovative hinterland hub of the North-European seaports – and thus as central gateway to all European markets. By linking transport by sea, rail and road in ever more efficient ways the goods of our customers reach their destination faster, more reliably and economically. This is especially due to the unique range of logistics services offered by the duisport Group and its partners. There's a lot to discover: so why not head for duisport.
